HILLTOP PLAYS TODAY FOR LEADING PLACE IN JESUIT GRIDIRON RACE

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

Georgetown's biggest home game comes today at American league park when the Hilltoppers take the field against Fordham University. The winner will take the lead in the race for the Eastern Jesuit football championship. Georgetown has triumphed over Holy Cross and Fordham has played a no-score tie with Boston College. Both elevens are reported in good condition for today's contest. The opening whistle will sound at 2:30 o'clock in order to finish playing before darkness.

The Hilltoppers will be without the veteran Carl Werts at center, but Bill Goggin is expected to hold his own in the middle of the line, leaving no weak place for the New Yorkers' attack. Fordham's captain, Fitzpatrick, is not in the best of shape and may not start. He recently broke a small bone in his wrist, but it is healing rapidly and, if necessary, he may play.

The return of Joe O'Connell to the Georgetown lineup means the little forward passing game. Both Florence and O'Connell are excellent receivers of the long pass. O'Connell took one behind the Holy Cross goal line while at full length. In addition, O'Connell is a brilliant defensive end, being a fighter from first to last.

Georgetown's veteran backs are expected to shine today. Flavin, McQuade and Kenyon are expected to shine in all directions. DuFour, the new quarterback, is following in Jackie Malone's footsteps on the road to stardom. All four should be at their best today.

Fordham is strong. Fordham's record is not quite as impressive as Georgetown's, but the Maroon has a strong team. Eliminating that topheavy score against Washington College, which was a 10-0, more than a high school in football ability, Fordham has not run up many points.

The Bronx eleven started off in pretty good shape against Maine, winning, 25-14, and slaughtered Washington College, 101-0. Catholic University, though, proved a tough foe, losing by a score of 10-0. That seemed to take a lot out of the Fordham team. The Villanova game ended in a fluke tie in the dark, the Pennsylvanians really being the winners.

Then came two big games. Lafayette, conqueror of Pittsburgh, was held to four touchdowns. Fordham getting one. The Maroon clearly outplayed Boston College last Saturday, failing to score largely because of fumbles and penalties. Once Meyers dropped the ball as he was scoring, the line, a Bostonian recovering it for a touchdown.

Coch DuMois has been bothered pretty much all season with a long list of injuries. He has been out of his crutches have recovered sufficiently to get into today's lineup.

Expect Hard Game. "Georgetown knows Fordham of old," said Coach Al Exendine today. "No Fordham team was ever beaten before the whistle sounded the close of the game and Georgetown expects a hard game today. Georgetown hopes for victory, but Georgetown doesn't believe it will come until it has been earned. Fordham team isn't quit." "Fordham has not played in Washington for seven or eight years, its last appearance being at the Hilltop when "Bud" Wymard electrified the Hilltop crowd with his magnificent defensive work as a roving center. Georgetown, by the way, won that game.

Today's game will be featured by the Georgetown singing. The cheering section has been working hard to make a good impression with songs and the Blue and Gray athletes will not lack for heartening support.

As for the styles to be seen, Georgetown's game is the "Pop" Warner football, clean, hard hitting, with the end and tackles, with concealed and double passes and long forward flings. Fordham is coached by Johnny DuMois, former Syracuse end, but Charlie Brickley has been using DuMois considerably this season and certain Harvard formations may be used today by the Maroon.

Wishing to save Jack Flavin and Bill Kenyon as much as possible from the hanging before the Georgia Tech contest a week from today, neither is expected to be started against Fordham by Coach Exendine. But very likely both lads will play part of the game. Bob Lowe is down to start at left halfback and Paul Byrne at fullback.

ARMY IS PRIMED FOR NOTRE DAME AT PLAINS TODAY

Biggest Crowd Which Ever Witnessed Game at West Point Expected.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Army and Notre Dame are ready for their annual football contest on the Plains gridiron today. The biggest crowd which ever watched football at West Point is expected to witness the contest.

The Notre Dame squad, thirty-five strong, arrived at noon yesterday from South Bend, Ind. They are big, physically, and in the limbering-up drill which they held on the Army field, looked the typical Notre Dame outfit with all its shifty plays and a varied assortment of air-line tosses.

Army also worked out in a brief signal practice yesterday. Notre Dame will miss George Gipp, deceased, hero of last year's contest, and Army will be minus the services of French, star back, who also performed spectacularly in the game of a year ago.

Knute Rockne, the Hoosier coach, said today if Army is stronger than it was a year ago the Cadets ought to win. He says his eleven is weaker than it was last season. Army's head coach, Charley Daley, was non-committal, but an undercurrent of feeling in the Army camp is that the Cadets will win.

The field is heavy, due to the rains prevailing early in the season.

The probable lineup follows:
Army. Pos. Notre Dame.
Stork. L. E. Killey
Goodman. L. T. Garvey
Garbis. L. G. H. Anderson
Green (Cpt.). C. Mehre
Bradley. R. G. E. Anderson (C.)
Mulligan. R. B. Dooley
White. R. T. Shaw
Johnson. Q. B. Grant
Richards. L. B. Mohardt
Smythe. R. B. Conklin
Wood. F. B. Wynne
Officials—Ed. Thorpe, De Le Salle, referee; Cochems, Wisconsin, umpire; Kersberg, Harvard, line-man; Costello, Georgetown, field judge.

Barnes Is Winner.

J. T. Barnes yesterday won the championship of the Washington Golf and Country Club by defeating John C. Davidson, 1 up at thirty-eight holes. The match was close through out, neither ever being more than 2 up.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

By - - - LOUIS A. DOUGHER

Great Is Bucky Harris

YES, this is football weather, but a lot of you folks care nothing about football, but will read baseball all the year around. That's why we're discussing Bucky Harris today within hearing distance of the punt, the dropkick and the forward pass. And Bucky Harris is worth discussion all the year around. He is quite the best young infielder introduced into the major leagues within the past five years. He started off like a whirlwind at last spring, threatening to finish up among the leaders. He fell back appreciably late in the season, when the whole Washington club was collapsing under the strain. He had bad streaks in the field, too, during those bad weeks, but when it came to covering ground Harris made records unequalled by Washington second basemen in many, many years. He looked like the leader among the base runners until the very last week, when George Sisler nosed him out, but he is young and may come through next year, though that is a bad phrase to use during the off season.

Jimmy Dykes, the Mackinnon's strong-armed second-sacker, handled seventeen chances in one game. That is one less than the record made by Fred Dunlap, greatest of the old timers. But when it comes to covering ground, Bucky Harris is right there with both feet and both hands. Harris handled eight fielding chances in seventeen games, two more than his closest rivals, Ban-dier, of the New York Giants, and Johnson, of the Chicago White Sox. Everett Scott tied him, handling eight chances successfully in seven games. Seven times did Bucky handle nine chances, four times ten chances and five times he took care of eleven hoppers or throws. Once he took care of thirteen chances in the field, which is going some for a second baseman.

Sam Bohne, of the Cincinnati Reds, once took care of fifteen chances in the field, and Kidstuff, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, once handled fourteen. With Dykes they are the only major leaguers to outstrip Harris, of the Griffins.

Those who equaled Harris in fielding clearly thirteen chances are Bohne, of the Reds; Parkinson, of the Phillies; Maranville, of the Pirates; Hollocher, of the Cubs; Beckinspaugh, of the Yankees; and McClellan, of the White Sox. It is interesting to note that of those equalling or surpassing Harris, Dykes and McClellan are the only lads achieving the stunt at second base.

Billy Evans has told me that he considers Bucky Harris easily the best of the Washington infielders. Most fans watching the team for the last time have arrived at the same conclusion. Bucky has the most pep, the best fighting spirit (and this takes nothing away from Frank O'Rourke, either), and the quickest train. With the passing of Eddie Collins, Bucky Harris is fitting himself to slide right into the place left vacant. It is only a short time before fans everywhere will consider Bucky Harris king of major league second basemen.

And That's That.
GEORGE H. GRIMES, of 530 House Office Building, rang us up yesterday to ask, "Was the Washington club in first place at any time during the 1921 season?" We hasten to reply, "Yes, on April 27, during the brief winning streak at the expense of the New York Yankees. The Griffis were in New York at the time and came home in second place."

The Quakers' Dilemma.
JOHNNY HEISMAN, father of the Georgia shift, has not been exactly a success at Pennsylvania, but he is not wholly to blame. He has another year to run on his present contract and he may need it to make a respectable showing. Last year he failed because he tried a new system with men unaccustomed to it. This year he lacks suitable material and, in addition, his schedule is too rough. Last fall Heisman said that the 1920 schedule was too strong for the Quakers. He selected the teams to be played this fall. Now they are found too powerful. For instance, today Penn must meet Lafayette, winner over Pittsburgh and Rutgers. The Quakers will probably lose today, just as they lost last week, to a team playing Warner football at its best. It is to be expected that next fall Pennsylvania will pick a much softer schedule, but the hard thing to do

CORNELL FACES BATTERED TEAM OF COLUMBIA

Ithaca Team Has Won All Five Games This Season by Topheavy Scores.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Gilmour Doble's undefeated Cornell eleven will line up against the battered Columbia team at 2 o'clock at the Polo Grounds this afternoon. This will be the only appearance of the powerful team from Ithaca in New York this year. So far it has played five games and won them all by topheavy scores, while Columbia has won two games and lost three.

Cornell has rolled up 286 points in 288 minutes of playing. The cry of a "point a minute" has followed the team down from Ithaca. Doble's style of attack relegates the star to the background and substitutes in its place one of the most effective offensives of the day. The back carrying the ball gets a four-man interference. The solution of it depends entirely upon the ability of the opposing ends to break up the interference. Dartmouth, with her pair of strong ends, could do nothing with it. Columbia, minus her regular wingmen, will be in a desperate position.

The probable lineup follows:
Columbia. Position. Cornell.
Cassidy L. E. Klenninger
Hansen L. T. Meyer
Brayton L. G. Walder
Jones R. G. Blain
Dodge R. T. Korn
Munnis R. E. W. B. Calloway
Fann Q. B. Anderson
Kaw L. H. Koppisch
Ramsey R. H. Moszczulski
Lech F. B. DeStefano
Officials: Referee—Carl A. Reed, Springfield. Umpire—R. W. Maxwell, Swarthmore. Head Line-man J. C. McDonald, Brown. Field Judge—L. O. Kirlinger, Washington and Jefferson.

Starting time—2 p. m.

HIGH SCHOOL GRID LADS FURNISH TIGHT BATTLES

By BRYAN MORSE.

Some time before the present High School football series got under way the prediction was made that the race would be unusually close. As each game is recorded the assumption made becomes a reality for there is little to choose between winner and loser in the matter of scores. Central rides atop the heap today with three wins. Western is second, and Tech, Eastern and Business trail in order. Central grabbed off a 7-0 win over Mike Kelley's Business lads yesterday, but the Stenogs got all the gravy.

Central will wonder, perhaps, why it isn't getting all the glory out of the high school series. The Blue and White will probably gain the title; that is, if Western is successfully handled. But the greatest prize, as was the case last season, will go to the smaller schools.

For Eastern to hold the big school to a 6-0 count and for Business to manage to check the Central lads to one touchdown, no matter how it was done, is an achievement which redounds to the credit of Coaches Guyon and Kelly. And there you are.

Margin Is Slim.
Central has the margin. But it is a slim one, nevertheless. The Mt. Pleasant lads won their first engagement from Eastern by 6 to 3. Their next struggle was a 7-6 game against Tech. Yesterday's game was in Central's favor by 7 to 0.

Bugetive opponents, however, dropped its games to Western by a 7-0 score, to Eastern by a 6-0 score, and to Central by a 7-0 score. No matter what Business does against Tech, the credit in the series shifts far gone to Mike Kelly and the Business lads for the most creditable showing of any Business eleven since 1912.

In yesterday's game Central showed unusually strong in comparison to Business in the matter of advancing the ball. The Mt. Pleasant lads gained fifteen first downs to three for Business. Central should have scored three more touchdowns, but the fact remains that they are not recording the summary because they were scored on the Stenogs.

Hopped In to Win.
Central hopped into its victory in the first period when Capt. Eddie Buckley crashed over the line for the first touchdown. Ty Rauber kicked goal.

Thereafter Central was able to gain consistently, but lost the ball at critical stages when Business either held for downs or Central fumbled. When outkicked Barrett consistently and Central backfield had something on the Business lads. In the main it was the strength of the Central backfield which turned the tide in favor of the big school as the lines fought it out on practically even terms.

Business considers the game a moral victory. To hold the big school to a single touchdown is glory for Business when it is considered that two or three years ago Business was led to scores of 120 and 76 to 0.

Central, however, is quite satisfied for the title is one step nearer with Western only in the offing. Or, as one high school lad put it recently, you can boost the other teams all you want to, but Central wins the championships.
